'Work hard, dream big' the theme for FGM Class of '17

With each graduand's favourite song playing, 29 members of F. G. Miller High School's Class of 2017 was introduced by vice principal Darcy Youngmans as they came forward through a packed crowd of proud family members and friends to take their places in the spotlight at Grad 2017 on Friday afternoon.

Carter Wood was the first of the class to take the stage, leading the crowd in O Canada.

Shayla Cameron delivered a touching message to the parents, noting their patience and understanding as they taught their offspring life skills, courtesy and safety. "You kept the things you feared from hurting me. You wanted the world for me. With what we've learned, may we improve the world."

Jean Ockerman gave the parents' point of view on "a day some looked forward to and some dreaded," and said, "I strongly believe that it takes a village to raise a child. Thanks to all the other parents who did that for us; we had our share of raising your kids too. I witnessed you crying when you left them at kindergarten with Mrs. Holota," she noted. Those frightened beginners grew up to "take revenge in loud music, the most expensive shoes and leaving the car with no gas in it."

EPE celebrates students' success

"If you came to school every day, worked hard and put in your best effort, you are a winner whether you receive an award or not," Elk Point Elementary School vice principal Leanne Vinge told the students as she welcomed them and their parents to the school's annual celebration of success.

"It's been a great year," principal Rob MacDonald added. "The years seem to go by faster and faster." He thanked the parents and the community partners, saying, "You are the backbone of our school."

Education is "more than reading, writing and math," Vinge said, as she introduced teachers from each grade as they came forward to present citizenship awards to their students.

Vinge noted that this year's program is slightly different from those in years past, and thanked Ed and Joanne Bepalko for the many years of sponsorship of sports awards for Grade Three and Grade Five students, in memory of their late daughters, Carrie and Tracy.

Seven Elk Point Elementary students, including three from the kindergarten classes, received Perfect Attendance awards this year: Bella Pinette, Kasia Morin, Devin Parr, Thomas Melnyk, Adasyn Havener, Robyn Urquhart and William Ballas, and were praised for this achievement.

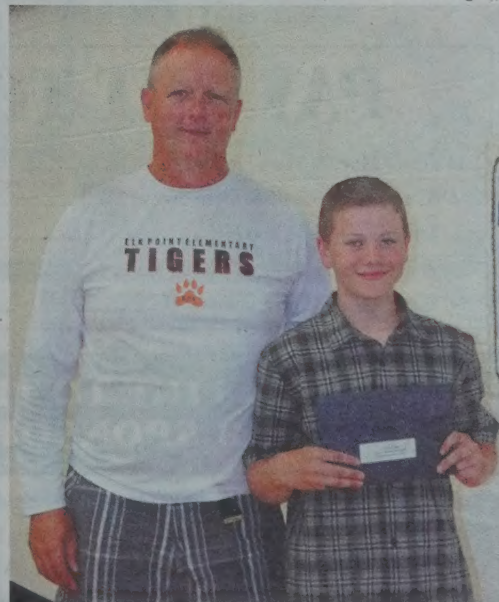

In presenting the St. Paul

Education Regional Division No. 1 Grade Six Academic Award, MacDonald noted that it was "closely contested," with recipient Colby Havener only one per cent ahead on his total marks in academic subjects from runner-up Hunter Ramsey.

In closing, Vinge told the parents, "Thank you for helping your children to be the best they can be. We are so proud of our students and we are glad you are here to share their accomplishments."

ST. PAUL EDUCATION Regional Division No. 1's Grade 6 Academic Award went to Colby Havener, and was presented by principal Rob MacDonald.

Class of 2017

Favorite memories of her daughter's school years included the class' Grade 6 camp at Whitney Lake, where she taught them the basics of scrapbooking. "I hope I taught you well that day, so you could save your great memories of your time together."

Ockerman said the "big trip across the street" to FGM brought big changes, including dating, driving and sports, and "I knew we had to chill a bit, but we hope we helped to raise your spirits in sports even when you didn't win, and promised you 'Jean's cookies' if you won. I'll miss making those cookies for you. Thank you for making me cheer loud and proud, and for letting me stand up to the hometown refs for you."

Overall, she concluded, "If the sky were our paper and the ocean our ink, we still wouldn't have the materials to tell you how proud we are of all of you."

In his message to the teachers, Ramsey Mudryk called school "the longest but the shortest journey of my life - just across the street" and said the graduation was not just the students' day of celebration but also one for the teachers, staff, families and the community.

As he went through the phases of "no moustache, moustache and no moustache," Mudryk said he had "no idea what I wanted to do with my life. I thank all of my past teachers. I am grateful to acquire my education in a small town where I spent every day getting closer to my goals and for all the help I received over the years, the teachers' hard work and dedication put us on the road to successful futures."

Jonathan Randall replied, saying, "This is the first class I've taught from Grade Seven to 12. We've experienced many things together. We definitely had individuals who pushed the boundaries and gave the teachers grey hair, but we are confident that you now have the tools to succeed. Now you must do something you have a passion for and make decisions that will affect your life in a positive way. Thank you for what each of you have done for F. G. Miller and for the betterment of future students here."

Valedictorian Christopher Boratynec, who thought perhaps "I should have paid more attention in English class" in order to write such an important address, said he "decided to wing it," but was shut down by the grad committee, instead offering a well thought out salute to his class of "terrific people with amazing qualities."

"What brats we were," he recalled. "I'm amazed that now we have a firefighter and people who work in businesses all over town. Lots are going to university. This is an oil town, a farming town and we know about booms and busts, drought, hail and dust. F. G. Miller is our micro community. All of us have received different supports, we have been taught to pay attention, and to have perseverance. We have strengthened our roots in a safe place to grow. From the bottom of our hearts, thank you to our families."

Boratynec singled out classmate Carter Wood "with his huge grin. Carter, I'm proud to share this achievement with you. This school, this community, these families, we're going to make all of you proud."

Younghans passed along best wishes from St. Paul Education Regional Division No. 1, Glenda Bristow, school trustee Lorne Young, and County of St. Paul councilors Dwight Dach and Glen Ockerman.

He then gave the history as each student came forward to accept their diploma from principal Colin Bjorkman, who said that after 20 grads, "I have to admit I'm recognizing less and less of their music, but I'm good for another year. The last six years here have been amazing."

A power point presentation wound up the program before caps were tossed in gleeful farewell, as the class prepared for the recessional.

THE TRADITIONAL PASSING OF THE CRUSADER SWORD saw Amy Harms and Dawson Delorme hand over the treasured icon to Dana Gibson and Jaden Plaska of the Class of 2018.

EDITORIAL

Let's welcome the Rendezvous!

A marked lack of enthusiasm has been shown over the news that the 2017 Voyageur Rendezvous Canoe Race will be spending Friday night in Elk Point's river campsite and Iron Horse Trail staging area.

It is somewhat puzzling, given that 50 years ago, over 12,000 people came to see the 1967 version of the race arrive, and stayed to "gobble up" 2,500 pounds of buffalo burgers, according to our predecessors.

Perhaps it is that visits by voyageur canoe brigades are no longer a novelty. Several brigades have paddled under the Elk Point bridge since those days, with the most recent and most memorable parading up Main Street a few years ago and being treated to a banquet at the A. G. Ross Arena.

Still, it doesn't seem fair to ignore this year's travelers, especially in this 150th anniversary of Confederation. We may not have a fatted buffalo to barbecue, but we can all show up to greet the Brigade in hospitable fur trade style when they come into view around 3 or 4 p.m. Friday afternoon. Come on down!

OLD NEWS

Elk Point draws record crowd for the Centennial Voyageur Canoe Pageant

John Diefenbaker guest speaker

(FROM THE ST. PAUL JOURNAL, JUNE 8, 1967)

An estimated crowd of over 12,000 persons jammed the landing at Elk Point bridge site on the North Saskatchewan River last Wednesday to welcome the Centennial Voyageur Canoe Pageant. The banks were literally dotted for a mile long to cheer the spectacle which is becoming more popular on every mile of the route.

There was congestion aplenty as the thousands of cars with spectators filed back the two-and-a-half miles to Elk Point for the parade.

The voyageurs were given the royal western treatment when their canoes were loaded on horse-drawn vehicles, escorted by outriders to give the crews a ride to Elk Point, the next stop of the large pageant.

Officiating at the official opening was Hon. John Diefenbaker, Conservative leader of the opposition.

He was overwhelmed by the large crowds and the enthusiasm generated by the Elk Point promotion, one of the largest on the route so far.

The spirit of unity displayed by Elk Point and its neighbouring towns is a vivid example of the Canadian unity we are striving to cement together in this country, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

Dr. F. G. Miller was introduced as "Mr. Elk Point" by chairman Ron Barwick and received a big hand for his pioneer contribution to the development of Elk Point.

The program continued with variety entertainment on stage, fiddling contest, crowning of the queen.

The buffalo barbecue was a tremendous success as hungry spectators crowded the booth and gobbled up 2,500 pounds of burgers.

Grace Franks awards, mural dedicated on rainy Canada Day

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF JULY 3 IN...

1987

It was not your average Canada Day in Elk Point, coming at the end of a four-day celebration that started with the grand opening of Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre on the previous Saturday, the day itself including the dedication of the Elk Point Historical Mural and an afternoon stage show that was relocated first to the chairless gym of F. G. Miller High School and then to the Elementary School gym, due to rain and threatening clouds. Fishing Lake Métis settlement marked a proud moment with the official opening of Riel Beach campsite.

Kalynchuk, Tasha Yopyk and Kirsty Lindquist were Elk Point Elementary's Grace Franks Award winners. The World Police/Fire Games Relay visited Elk Point on the first lap of their journey to Calgary for the World Police/Fire Games.

It was a star-studded night for F. G. Miller's Class of 2002, with class historians Mat Zarowny and Kali Cousins giving a brief rundown on each member of what had been considered "a bad class" back in junior high. Elk Point Elementary celebrated learning, with Grace Franks Awards going to Brett Zarowny, Trevor Ballas, Taylor Cochrane, Erin Carlson, Kelsey Vinge, Kelsey Lindquist, Calby Anderson, Jordyn Wozniak, Seanna Ewasiuk, Amber Babcock, Kameron Ballas, Alexander Buck, Andrea Lee, Sarah Zarowny, Derek Wruth and Chelsea Richards.

2007

Leigha Bishop received the first St. Paul Education Regional Division No. 1 Academic Achievement Award for Grade 6 students at Elk Point Elementary's Awards Day. Eric Mosely, Brett Lindquist, Taylor Jenner and Cassy Cochrane were named F. G. Miller's sportsmen and sportswomen of the year at the school's sports banquet.

2012

St. Paul and District Co-op general manager Bob Scott and Co-op directors Cliff Martin and Dwayne Vogel visited Elk Point Town Council's June 25 meeting to unveil their plans for the expansion and modernization of the Co-op food store, with construction scheduled to start in the spring of 2013. Lifelong supporter of education Grace Franks, who passed away in 1997 at the age of 102, was remembered with the presentation of the annual Grace Franks Awards by her niece, Isabel Myshaniuk to students Grade 3A - Daniel Cardinal; 3B - Alexa Berlinguette; 4A - Cameron Garnett-Bennett and Hank Rogal; 4B - Alyssa Adkins, Rhianna Bjorkman, Katelyn Boratynec; 5A - Megan Adkins, Carson Vogel; 5B - Mackenzie Evans, Corbin Ockerman; 6A - Morgan Baker, DJ Drobot; 6B - Kira Brunner, Jaden Plaska.

Town Council news

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Axia Fibre Town's mail out to Elk Point residents yielded only 14 expressions of interest, and town council received a list of suggestions at their June 26 meeting on ways to encourage sign-ups, ranging from having the town administration and elected officials go door to door promoting sign-ups to hosting a town hall meeting on the subject. Council didn't feel the need to follow any of those suggestions, but did agree that it might be possible to generate interest at Information Night on Sept. 5, where they later agreed to book a table, and then decided to ask if Axia would like to seek out support by having their own booth at the event.

Borrowing bylaws

Council gave first reading to Borrowing Bylaw 762/17, which when finalized will give them the power to co-sign the renewal of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce's $134,000 loan at Servus Credit Union. Mayor Parrish Tung noted it is up to the Chamber to renew attempts to pay down the loan, as that was the rationale for increasing the town's rent of the space used by the County of St. Paul and Elk Point FCSS.

Later in the meeting, council dealt with a borrowing bylaw to allow the refinancing of an amount not to exceed $972,419, still owing on the water reservoir. The refinancing would allow the debt to be paid down quicker and would hopefully allow interest to be locked in for the duration of the loan.

Emergency Services Golf Tournament

The town will once again be gold sponsors of the Elk Point Emergency Services Golf Tournament in support of STARS, scheduled for Friday, Aug. 25, with the mayor reminding councillors that if they wish to take part, they must pay their own entry fees.

Councils to be recognized

One day short of 79 years after Elk Point's first-ever council meeting on June 27, 1938, today's council pored over a comprehensive list of the mayors, councils and administrators from that day until the present, and discussed ways to acknowledge the leaders of the community over the decades. A plaque bearing a photo of the current council that would be placed in council chambers was one suggestion, as were a plaque listing the councils of the past. It was also agreed that the list could be placed on the Elk Point Historical Society website if the society wishes to do so. The list was accompanied by an article that had been written by Councillor J. C. Jensen one year after the first council meeting, and that had been included in the council minutes binder for that year.

Business plan

The Regional Strategic Business Plan for the Town and County of St. Paul, the Town of Elk Point and the Summer Village of Horseshoe Bay was brought to council and given their approval, after already being approved by the other jurisdictions.

Fee schedule bylaw

Council gave all three readings to a bylaw establishing their updated fee schedule for everything from photocopying to heavy equipment. Additions include the custom geographical information system mapping and analysis, at $250 per year, which would allow realty companies that sign up to access information such as property assessment. Council later passed a motion to provide this service for the realtors at the noted fee.

ELK POINT TOWN COUNCIL started their June 26 meeting by presenting a gift for 10 years of service and a retirement gift to Audrey Rainey (right), who served as janitor for the town office, library and EcoCentre until recently.

Assessment

Also on the topic of assessment, council accepted a proposal by Wainwright Assessment Group Ltd. for a three-year renewal of their assessment services contract, agreeing that they had been happy with the service provided by the company under the previous contract.

STIP grant

Council has now received official word from Alberta Transportation that the town's application for cost-shared grant funding for Elk Point Municipal Airport's lighting and runway extension under the Strategic Transportation Infrastructure Program (STIP) was not recommended for funding approval, but could apply again for the grant in 2018.

Reduced setback

A request for a variance of setback from the property line on renovations to an apartment building that would allow the addition of a covered walkway for the comfort and safety of residents was approved.

Pickleball needs more space

A request to increase the length of the space for the new pickleball court by 20 feet was approved, after council agreed that the remaining 80-foot stretch of the outdoor skating rink would be adequate space for the rink, which is rarely used and then mostly by small children, with Coun. Dwayne Yaremkevich noting that the smaller area would be ample, "and we can look after it better."

Recycling conference

Public Works superintendent Jay Duffee was given the go-ahead to attend an upcoming Alberta CARE conference on recycling.

Innovative use of rebate

Mayor Tung and council have been challenged to use a $1,218 rebate from the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association and the Alberta Municipal Services Corporation in an "innovative way that will directly benefit your community," and to enter their contest with a story and photo of their use of the funds. The winning municipality with the most innovative use will receive a free AUMA convention registration. The matter was tabled until the July 10 meeting to allow them to come up with a winning idea.

Celebrating 22 years of "Jamn Good Music"

Holders of the Forts

This past week marked the 25th anniversary of the official opening of Fort George and Buckingham House Provincial Historic Site, 11 km southeast of Elk Point, high above the North Saskatchewan River, which in the days those rival forts were established, was the main highway of the fur trade.

This year's interpretive staff at the Forts includes, left to right, newcomers Lynn Iorio and Ashley Bristow, four-year veteran Dayle Oster and returning for a second year, Wyatt Telford.

The historic site is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week from May 15 to Labour Day, and has been busy with school group visits throughout the latter half of May and all of June. Now the staff and program coordinator Ross Stromberg are putting the final touches on plans for their big event of the season, Bushcraft 1792, which will take place July 15 and 16. The event will feature the Edmonton House Brigade, who will be demonstrating their vast knowledge of fur trade skills, along with other special visitors over the two days. And yes, since this new two-day event is combined with the former Saskatoon Festival, there will be saskatoon pie available!

Cal's Hardware marks
20 years in business

The Porcinas, Lesia, Curtis, Jaime and daughters Brooklyn and Kendra, celebrated 20 years since the creation of Cal's Hardware Ltd., first as a Home Hardware store on the site of the fire-devastated Phil's Hardware, and later switching to RONA and expanding to take over the premises of the former Vincent Lumber. "I'm so proud of you," Rod Mack of RONA (above right) told the Porcinas. "We're glad to have you on our team." The photo collage of their 1996 beginning is one of three Lesia created to mark the anniversary, saying, "From 1996 to now, there's lots of reminiscing to do."

THINGS TO CONSIDER BEFORE UPSIZING YOUR HOME

So you're thinking of movin' on up. You feel you have outgrown your current home and are looking at upsizing. Here are some things to consider before upsizing your home.

COST

A bigger home comes with bigger costs. You need to first decide how much you can afford with your new mortgage. Not only are mortgage payments going to be higher, but property taxes are usually higher on a larger home due to the lot size being bigger. Another cost to consider is utilities. Because you are looking into more square footage your utility costs will also rise. A larger house costs more to heat, air condition and uses more water.

A larger home will likely have more rooms you will need to furnish. Maybe you have children sharing a room with a bunk bed right now. A larger home means each child will probably have their own room, and you will need to buy new beds. You may also now have an extra guest room, sitting room or dining room to furnish.

LOCATION

Have you considered the type of neighbourhood you would like to live in? If you have children you may want to consider a cul-de-sac versus a busy main street. What amenities are close by that are important to you? Look around for schools, parks, playgrounds and other areas for your family to spend time. Another consideration is the people living in your new neighbourhood.

FEATURES

Make a list of all of the things you don't like about your current home and keep that list with you when you are shopping around. A list of must-haves and nice-to-haves is also good to bring along. Your new home may have many bedrooms but does it have enough bathrooms? A bigger home is great, but if it only has one bathroom that could be challenging.

A larger home also means more home maintenance. Do you have the extra time and money to keep up with the extra cleaning, fixing, and yard maintenance? A larger yard means a lot more upkeep, especially if you plan to spend more time outside.

Many new homes come without landscaping or fenced yards, and it is up to the homeowner to put up their fence and do the landscaping.

Making the decision to move to a bigger home can be exciting. It can also be a little overwhelming, and we're here to help.
